To Whom It May Concern

This letter certifies that Blackmore Holdings Pty Ltd owns and runs a Fullblood herd of registered Wagyu cattle. All cattle are direct descendants of both male and female cattle exported from Japan. D.N.A parent verification is conducted on all females and recorded by the Australian Wagyu Association. Tail hair samples are kept on file of all males to verify carcass data if required.

Our company is a self contained fully integrated business. Generations of all cattle records are kept on file for full traceability. All cattle are electronically tagged. Birth records, weaning weights, treatments and stock movements are all recorded and available, backed by the National Electronic Identification Scheme (NLIS).

Once our Wagyu cattle enter the feeding facility, the procedure continues. Our cattle have been fed in the same designated undercover pens for over 10 years. No other stock enters this area. The feedlot complies with all state and federal laws relating to chemical and pesticide laws (less than 0.05%) and Meat Standards Australia Scheme (#9370). It is accredited under the Japanese Agricultural Standard (JAS).

All feed is G.M.O. free and contains no antibiotics and no animal bi-products are fed as per government regulations. All cattle are H.G.P free. Cattle are weighed and monitored at regular intervals including pen movements, daily gain and days on feed. The documentation of this process is electronically stored and available.

Due to the value of the cattle they are delivered to Rockdale Beef processing plant on cleaned horse transporters, completely separate to other cattle. When these cattle exit the feeding facility they are accompanied by National Vendor Declaration.

We understand that these procedure's and records are second to none in Australia. Our full traceability procedure from birth to delivery and beyond is maintained and recorded electronically. The procedures are backed by our electronically stored records that are available for scrutiny, and our integrity and reputation built up over decades.
